Hello!

We're launching a new blog at Adventure Lighting which is going to focus on how to save consumers money through better lighting, energy savings tips and other tricks of the lighting trade that we've picked up over the years. We're also going to include specific offers and savings to our blog readers only, so please check it out and, if you like what you read, subscribe to it - we'd love to have you!

Thank you for your support!
